BLEW A SIGNAL OF GOOD-BYE.

Then Capt. Taylor of the Colima Sank With His Ship.

VESSEL WAS OVERLOADED.

Vivid Description of the Awful Wreck by Survivors on Board the SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 1.—An Exminer special from Mazatlan says: The steamer San Juan has arrived here with the twenty-one passengers picked up on Tuesday from the wreck of the Colima. From them your correspondent has learned ome of the particulars of the dreadful day noon, when the Colima was twenty-eight miles out of Manzanillo and ten

All the rescued are badly bruised. They were all picked up from pieces of wreckage and rafts, with the exception of A. J. Sutherland, who had clung to a boat after it had capsized five times and drowned

As all were afloat, lashed by the fiercest gale of years, and buffeted by the angry seas for about twenty-four hours, they are hardly yet in a condition to tell a connected story of the wreck and the experiences of their escape, but many interesting particulars have been obtained.

HEAVILY LADEN.

The steamer was heavily laden and had a large deck load of lumber. When the storm struck her she made bad weather of it, the captain having great difficulty in keeping her head to the sea. The wind increased in fury until it is said to have been the fiercest storm known along the coast in twenty years. The sea rose rapidly. Waves washed the vessel and started the deck load. As the waves rose and the storm increased, the managing of the steamer became impossible. At last, about noon, her head could no longer be kept up and she breached to. Once in the trough of the sea, a mighty wave struck her and she was thrown on her beam ends. This wave struck her with such force that the steamer trembled as if she had run upon a reef, and most of the passengers thought this the cause of the shock. This gave rise to the first reports that the ship had struck on a reef.

COULD NOT RIGHT HERSELF.

Whether because of the heavy deck load, the shifting of the coal and cargo, or the force of the storm, the steamer would not right herself. The passengers were pretty badly stunned by being pitched about, but rushed upon the deck in a panic. Here they met another danger. The gale tore part of the deck load of lumber from its fastenings and whirled the heavy planks about with appalling violence. Many were struck and maimed. At least one passenger was killed by having his head crushed by one of the flying timbers.

In their terror the passengers made few mental notes of their surroundings at this juncture. The survivors say, however, that the officers of the steamer were brave and active. Capt. Taylor stood upon the bridge, his first officer. D. E. Griffiths, with him.

At an order Griffiths rushed aft to superintend the launching of life boa and succeeded in getting it launched and filled with passengers.

Then down went the ship and Langhorn's boat was capsized. All in the boats were supposed to have been drowned.

PERISHED AT HIS POST.

Capt. Taylor went down with the ship, sticking to his post. As the ship pitched downward he blew three blasts on the whistle, supposedly as a signal of good-by. Then he disappeared beneath the waves.

Down went the engineers and firemen at their posts. Freight Clerk Berry was in his room at the time of the final plunge.

Third Officer Hanson was saved. As the steamer sank he cut some of the lashings of the deck lumber. Then he jumped or was thrown overboard on the weather side of the vessel and reached the top of the deck house. This had been torn off and washed away by the great wave which threw the Collima on her beam. There Hanson clung, washed and buffeted, for twenty-four hours. He saw men and women sink about him, but was powerless to aid

HER BOILERS BURST. HER BOILERS BURST.

Hanson says that as the steamer foundered her bollers burst. The deck burst under his feet as he left the ship. Ten other men were thrown into the sea with him. The bursting of the bollers tore off the deck and threw part of it over at least a dozen men who were struggling in the water, drowning them all. Flying debris hit others.

water, drowning them all. Flying debris hit others.

Two life rafts were seen to be afloat. On one were three men and on another six, including J. A. Childburg of Seattle, Wash., who seemed to have been a leader in the work of launching the raft. Those in any position to take notice of their surroundings saw many who clung to bits of wreckage and the lumber from the deck load. The gale caught the wreckage from the crests of the great waves and beat the struggling unfortunates with it. One man's skull was crushed by a whirling plank as he was about to clamber upon a life raft. The dash of the sea made each timber a menace as well as a hope. So the fight for life began. There was no hope for women or children and small chances for men in such a storm. Many of the women and children must have remained in their cabins. The completely nude bodies of the stewardess and two other women came floating by the deck house-some time after the steamer sank. All were dead, and the sight was so distressing that Officer Hanson and the others on the deck house pushed the bodies away with a plece of scantling.

pushed the bodies away with a piece of seanting.

PROF. WHITING'S FATE.

Prof. Harold Whiting of the California University made a heroic effort to save his wife and four children and the nurse. He rot into a boat in which were A. J. Sutherand and others. The boat was soon swamped. Then it was righted, but went over again. Five times she was righted fiter being overturned. The women were hom. Some were killed or stunned by the tying debris. At last only Sutherland was eft. To avoid the swirling wreckage, he nimbed up on the seats while the life boat was overturned and so floated with the bottom of the boat serving him as a protecting hield. Air came to him through the brok-n sides of the boat.

Sutherland says he was on the weather ide of the steamer when she went on heream ends, but slid over to the lee side and oil into a boat. As the steamer went down mast, or part of the rigging, took the boat under water. When it came to the surface unterland crawled into it again. Then he taked up Prof. Whiting, Mrs. C. Irving and nother lady supposed to be Mrs. Whiting. Almust immediately the boat capsized gain, and as has been related, went over no set than five times, drowning Prof. Whiting timated that within three minutes of the time Captain Taylor gave his farewell blasts of the whistle the steamer had entirely disappeared.

All the passengers praise the captain for his coolness and heroism. The last they saw of him he stood at his post, the waves and winds dashing water and debris all about him, and the wail of that whistle will sound through the dreams of many for years to come.

Capt. Pitts of the San Juan put lookouts in the masheads and and cruised through and around the floating debris for hours and then continued on her trip, calling here and leaving four of the passengers from the wreck. Five more survivors drifted ashore at Coapuayana, sixty miles south from here. They are J. E. Childberg, Louis H. Peters and Enrique Vider, cabin passengers: Fred Johason, seaman, and Robert Gonzales, mess boy. They were thrity-three hours on a life raft without food or water. They saw the San Juan, but were not seen by the lookouts.

Capt. Pitts was first attracted by seeing the sea covered with wreckage, in which were found the survivors, all of whom were nearly naked. Their account was heart-rending. Every attention was given them. A peculiar circumstance in connection with the disaster is the fact that Pref. Whiting before starting with his family on the Collma drew up two wills. In one he provided that in case the steamer went down and he was drowned his estate should revert to the surviving members of his family. In the other he provided that on the death, of his entire family, his property should revert to his surviving relations in the East. After executing the two wills and but a few days before starting on his sea voyage, the professor mailed the testaments to Attorney Brewster of Cambridge, who was a classmate at Harvard with both Profs. Whiting and Strongham.

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 1.—B. E. Brown of this city filed an application in the Forty-eighth District Court for a writ of habeas corpus to compel Mrs. M. A. Payne and her son, Charlie Payne, to Payne and her son, Charlie Payne, to bring his (Brown's) wife into court and to deliver her over to him. Brown was married May 22 at Granbury, Tex., to Miss May Payne, daughter and sister respectively of the respondents in this case. The marriage did not suit Mrs. Brown's people. Brown and his wife were walking along Third street when they were intercepted by Mrs. Brown's relatives who compelled her to leave her husband and return to her former home. Judge Greene granted petitioner's prayer and ordered Mrs. Brown brought into court. On a hearing of the case, the wife was given over to the "possession" of the husband. The people are prominent.

Gov. Clarke Talks Frankly to the Uni-

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 1.—In presenting diplomas to the graduates of the Law Department of the Arkansas University last night, Gov. Clarke said there was no such thing as law. There were rules accepted at law, he said, but they were so complex in principle as to render the law a myth. Ninety per cent of the cases appealed could be decided either way: The lawyers on the bench frequently divide, ample evidence of which was recently furnished by the highest tribunal in the land.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 1.—The Democrats of Illinois in their convention at Springfield next week will not only adopt an unlimited silver coinage platform, but will also send out a memorial address to the free-silver Democrats of the country, calling for a National Democratic Monetary Conference to be held next autumn. It is thought the convention will be held in St. Louis, on account of its central location.

was drowned. His injuries are severe. Some of the others are in a pitiable condition.

THE RESCUE BY THE SAN JUAN.
The appearance of the San Juan kept up the spirits of those who were ready to give up the unequal struggle as hopeless.

The notice of the trouble came to the first officer of the San Juan, who noticed a great quantity of wreckage and reported the probability of a disaster during the storm. Capt. Pitts immediately sent men aloft and soon some of the survivors were sighted. All the twenty-one picked up were found within a radius of two or three miles.

The Colima is in 600 fathoms of water. The location where she went down is given as 18 degrees 38 minutes west.

Though the direct cause of the disaster was the tremendous sea and the fearful southeast gale, it is generally believed that the Colima was badly overloaded. She refused three lighters of freight here, having already all she could carry. It is supposed that at Manzanillo she discharged some of her freight, but that she transferred some to the deck from the hold, making her top heavy and unable to withstand the heavy head winds and crosses.

Then, too, it is thought the cargo was Then, too, it is thought the cargo was badly stowed, and that it shifted as soon as the steamer began to reel over. It is estimated that within three minutes of the time Captain Taylor gave his farewell blasts of the whistle the steamer had entirely dis-to do as she requested and each week squandered his earnings.

This state of affairs was kept up until a few months ago, when Miss Harding became aware that she was again to become a mother. She then went to Jones and besought him to fulfill his promise.

Jones treated her coldly. He refused to marry her or even have anything to do with her in the future and told her to go about her business and never trouble him on any more. As far her children, he said he did not care what became of them, she might throw them in the river for all he cared. He did not want to see or hear of them ever again.

These words stunned the woman and she returned to her home and went to bed ill. She was loath to believe that her lover meant all the cruel words he had spoken and as soon as she had recovered sufficiently she sought him and again she returned home crushed with grief. During the last few weeks these scenes were re-enacted on several occasions. At last the woman come to right her wrongs as far as he was able. He spurned her and again she returned home crushed with grief. During the last few weeks these scenes were re-enacted on several occasions. At last the woman come to the conclusion that Jones was in earnest when he said that he intended to cast her and her children aside forever.

On realizing that it was impossible to change him from this determination she made up her mind to be revenged.

Last Christmas Jones gave her a silver cup as a present. One day last week she took this cup to a pawnshop and borrowed fig. With the money she purchased a bull-dog revolver.

About 8 o'clock this morning she left her home and set out to find the author of her misfortune, intending to beseech him once more to marry her, and if he refused to kill him. She carried out this determination to the letter. She carried the revolver clutched in her right hand, and concealed it beneath the folds of her cape.

On arriving at his boarding-house, she saw her recreant lover sitting at an open window on the third floor. She called to him to come down, saying she wished to speak to him. He obeyed and took a seat on the stone steps in front of the house, while she stood before him with her arms apparently folded beneath her cape.

They talked together about haif an hour, she begging him to marry her, and he, according to her story, perfectently refusing. No one else was within hearing.

At last, goaded almost to frenzy by his coldness, the woman drew the pistol from under her cape and without warning fired point blank at her betrayer's breast. They were only about three feet apart at the time.

were only about three feet apart at the time.

With a cry of pain Jones turned and fied through the open door of the house, passing through the hall, screaming "I'm shot. I'm shot." He ran down the back steps leading to the yard, and at the bottom fell to the ground dead. The bullet had taken effect in the right breast, and is supposed to have pierced the lurg.

After the shooting the woman walked slowly out of the gate and started south on Fifteenth street. She was met about half a block distant by Private Watchmah John McGrath, who, seeing the smoking pistol in her hand, asked her what she intended to do.

"Twe just shot a man," she replied.

Policeman Conron came up, and learning what had taken place, took the woman to the Four Courts. The body of the murdered man was taken to the Morgue.

In talling her story, the woman who did the shooting appeared perfectly cool and collected. She did not display the least sorrow on account of her act, and seemed to think the wrongs perpetrated upon her by

I believe that a demajority of the people of the State for free silver, but a committee man express a doubt as to the advisability of helpiding a convention without being the convention of the state of the silver, but a committee man express a doubt as to the advisability holding a convention without being the convention without being the convention without being the convention of the silver of the advisability of the

"Do you think Mr. Murray's telegram represents the feeling of the people of Clay County?" Mr. Thomas was asked.

"No, I don't believe it does. As I said, I believe the majority of the Democrats of my district want a convention."

Maj. Harvey W. Salmon of the Sixth District said he believed that the question of postponement meant a State Convention in the end. The people of his district, he said, had not taken much interest in the question yet, and the only thing that he was considering was what was the best thing for the interests of the party.

E. B. Cook of the Ninth District was unequivocally in favor of a convention and an emphatic declaration of principles. "We will lose more votes by inaction than we would by a declaration for the gold policy," he said. "The Democrats in my district want something that has no uncertain ring about it. The sooner that we declare ourselves the better it will be."

Tom Connor of the Fifteenth District was violently opposed to a State Convention. He excitedly declared in the rotunds that only the politicians wanted it, and that the people as a rule took no interest in it.

FOR A JULY CONVENTION.

Two resolutions were introduced at the meeting of the committee. One by A. C. Sherwood of the Fourteenth District calling for a State Convention July 4. This was amended by consent fixing the date at July 1. Then Chairman Maffitt made a speech advocating an adjournment of the committee without taking any action. He was opposed in toto to any convention at all. R. E. Lozier of the Second District, strongly advocated the Sherwood resolution for a convention August 1. J. W. Zeveley of the Eighth District, then introduced a resolution referring the matter back to the County Committee with instructions o call mass meetings or primary elections and report the results to a meeting of the State Comtes to be held June 2.

There was a bitter wrangle from that time until recess. Lozier, J. B. Thomas of the Third District, S. B. Cook, Sherwood and Harvey W. Salmon wanted the matter settled at onc

J. R. Brown of Saline bitterly opposed a convention, although he admitted that his county had declared in favor of one. Zeve-ley also admitted that his constituents wanted a convention, but he wanted the counties to express themselves in conven-tion or by primaries.

wanted a convention, but he wanted the counties to express themselves in convention or by primarles.

Frank Lutz, who had A. C. Steuber's proxy, fought the convention idea. J. C. Roberts of St. Louis, started by favoring a convention, but some one told him that if one was held it would elect a new State Committee, and then Mr. Roberts switched. Henry Rozler of the Thirteenth District admitted that the Democrats of his district were favorable to a convention, but he wanted them to give an official expression of their views. "Tom" Connors of the Fifteenth also thought the people of his district were for free silver, but he was against it, tooth and toe nail.

Every member of the committee has somehing to say, and while everyone said he believed the sentiment of the great majority of the Democrats he represented was favorable to a convention, each had some personal reason for putting it off.

There was no vote taken before the recess, but it is generally understood that when the committee meets at 6 o'clock a vote will at once be taken on the Zeveley resolution, and that it will be adopted. Under it the Secretary will be required to at once notify the Chairmen of the various County Committees to cal for an expression of the Democrats of their counties, and notify the State Committee will then meet and fix the date for the State convention if the majority of the counties declare in favor of it.

This is what some prominent Democrats say about it:

Frederick N. Judson—No, speaking from a Democratic standpoint, I certainly see no reason for calling a convention at this time. If Mr. Filley is the astute positician he is popularly supposed to be he will certainly do all he can to call a Democratic convention for the purpose of distracting the party at a time when there is no occasion for it. There is neither a national nor a State campaign this year requiring the expression of organized party opinion. At the proper time the party committee is bound, according to party precedent, to call for organized party action; but in an off political year, as the present, the committee, in my opinion, has no jurisdiction or power in the premises. But aside from that, such a course would not only be unprecedented and revolutionary, but the height of party folly. I would suggest that you ask Mr. Filley what he thinks of the advisability of the Democrats holding a convention at this time.

Paul H Bierman—I believe under the cir-

Democrats holding a convention at this time.

Paul H. Bierman—I believe under the circumstances that it would be best to hold the convention. It would bring the representatives of the party together and its interests can best be served only by being fully discussed. The committee ought to issue the call.

Charles B. Stark—It is the duty of the committee to call the convention. The people demand it, and the committee should assemble the convention and let it take whatever action it sees fit.

Frank P. Gorman—The people are demanding it, that's certain. I don't see how the committee can refuse to call the convention without doing injury to the party and injustice to the people.

Frank M. Esies—As far as I can see the sentiment of the Democrats of the State is overwhelmingly in favor of a convention to be held at an early date. The State Committee is the only duly constituted authority in the State to issue such a call, and they ought to issue it.

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 1.—After the address of the President at the Baptist anniversaries to-day the seventy-first annual report of the Board of Managers of the American Baptist Publication Society was presented. The sales for 1894 were 497,807; those for 1896 are 853,763; all other receipts, $19,992; $26,760 have been transferred from the profits of the publication department to the missionary work of the society a deficit of $3,868 is reported. This, added to the deficit last year gives a total deficit in the missionary department of $18,401. The entire amount received the past year for Bible work was $15,242 and for missionary work $12,608.

Sixty-three new publications have been issued during the year, making fourteen more than last year.

Of these nearly 363,000 copies have been printed. The entire number of books, pamphlets, periodicals, tracts, etc., new and old, printed during the year there have been issued $3,855,600 copies of different periodicals. The number of importunate appeals from all parts of the continent has greatly increased during the last year of floods, fires, failures of crops and depressed business. Many who in ordinary times are self-reliant now cry for aid. Churches, schools, pastors, missionaries and State conventions plead and urge great and present needs. Three chapel cars have been at work during the year, one in Argansas, one in California and one in Minnesota. Thousands otherwise unreached have heard the gospel.

Charles Webb Discussed the Murder of Malvina Wade.

WAS COOL AND DELIBERATE.

Sol Williams, to Whom He Told His Story, Held as an whose body was found in a stable in the rear of IIE Gravois avenue Thursday night. Solomon Williams, a negro employed in the stable at Indiana avenue and Victor street, is declared to be an accessory after the fact, and ordered held to await investigation. Williams was locked up immediately after the verdict was returned. He is the last man who saw the murderer, and is believed to have aided him in making his escape.

Williams is a slender negro, slightly above average height. He is employed by a horse man at the South Side track. He is believed to know more than he will tell.

Webb has not yet been captured. The jury also finds that death resulted from shock and hemorrhage resulting from gunshot wounds in the heart and brain; that the intent was to kill and the shooting felonious.

Sol Williams testified to seeing Webb the shot wounds in the heart and brain; that the intent was to kill and the shooting felonious.

Sol Williams testified to seeing Webb the night of the murder, and also on the following morning. Friday morning Webb came by the barn and said: "Good-bye; I'm going away." He started down Victor street, as though coming up town. On Thursday night Webb came to the stable and told Williams he had killed a "felier." That was about 10:30 o'clock. He started his story by saying. "I've did it." He taiked and drank beer with Williams for probably haif an hour, and all that time he talked and drank beer with Williams for probably haif an hour, and all that time he talked in a cool and deliberate manner, as though the killing of a man was an insignificant matter. There were probably fifteen men in the crowd who heard what the murderer said.

To Williams he said: "I had some trouble and killed a feller. No, I didn't kill a man—it was my girl. You know what my trouble has been. We had a falling out and I killed her. The body is in the barn." Witness said Webb showed the revolver which had done the shooting. He left about 11:30 and went north on Indiana avenue. Williams was afraid to tell the police, as he considered Webb a dangerous man and, was afraid he would kill him. He wore dark coat and trousers, a black derby hat, black shoes, white shirt and no vest.

Julia Fredericks testified she heard two shots fired about 10 o'clock. Annie Boettigheimer thought she heard three shots about the same time.

A negro inquired for Webb and John Diedrich went into the stable to find him. He was horrified when he saw the body of the dead girl with blood on her face. He ran out and notified the police. Sergt. Hess went to the scene to investigate and found the corpse lying on the cot, with arms folded across the breast. Two bullet holes showed that murder had been done, but there was no evidence of a struggle. The body appeared to have been laid there after the girl was killed. Her clothing was in order.

the girl was killed. Her clothing was in order.

Solomon Wade, the father of the girl, testified he had known Webb was calling on his daughter for twenty months. He formed a bad impression of him. In July Webb slipped into the house and saw the girl. Then her father called on him and forbade him to call any more.

Webb came here from Aberdeen, Miss., and followed the races. Williams thinks he is a Mexican.

WATER FAMINE.

Indianapolis in aVery Unpleasant and Dangerous Position.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 1.—Indianap olis to-day feit the first effects of a water famine. For two years there has been scarcely any rain in Central Indiana and scarcely any rain in Central Indiana and there is a shortage of eleven inches in the last five months. The temperature has been 56 degrees for two days, rapidly reducing the water in the low streams and scorching vegetation. The Indianapolis Water Co. has taken steps to stop street sprinkling and otherwise reduce the consumption of the supply of water derived from wells sunk in the banks of White River above the city. A filter connects the river with the city supply, and through this water has been drawn from the river in time of need. Now, howfrom the river in time of need. Now, how-ever, the river is so low that the level may at any hour fall below the level of the filter. If there should be a big fire the fire chief and the water company say the water supply would be immediately exhausted. The sky is brass and there is no sign of rain.

A shut-down for thirty days, which throws A shut-down for thirty days, which throws 350 hands out of employment temporarily, has just gone into effect at Buck's stove and range works, 3500 North Second street. The cause of the stoppage is stated by the company to be an entire change of styles of all the standard stoves. Patterns for 27 new styles are now being made, and as soon as they are done the full force will again be employed. Most of those laid off are employed in the foundry. The company's officials state that the company would have gone right on, but for this change of designs. It has been running without suspension since the fall of 1893 and has not caught up with its orders in all that time.

Sedalia's Saloon Fight.

SEDALIA. Mo., June 1—At a meeting last night the Civic Federation decided to prefer charges against the police at the council meeting next Wednesday night for railing to arrest saloon-keepers for keeping open last Sunday because excursionists were here from St. Louis and Kansas City. If it appears that the police failed to do their duty because of instructions from superior officers, impeachment proceedings will at once be begun against the latter. The federation has called a mass meeting for next Tuesday night and has amployed counsel to push the matter.

and three other boys, none of whom she knew, came south on Ninth street, and tried to interfere with several little girls who were playing with a foot ball on the side walk. Miss Prochl told the boys to go away and they ran diaganally across the street, stopping in front of the allsy by which Hugh Ryan reached his home. There a southe ensued, about which Miss Prochl gave hereelf little concern, although she continued leaning from the front window from which she had witnessed the incidents already noted. The next incident that attracted her notice was the flight of Hugh Ryan diagonally across the street, toward the Prochl's front gate, followed part of the way by two boys. Suddenly one of them stooped, secured a stone about as large as a boy's fist and hurled it after Hugh. It struct the lad at the base of the right ear. At the time he was hit the boy had just jumped from the gutter upon the pavement. He stood for a second after receiving the blow, and then fell forward on his face. Miss Prochl thought at first he was shamming, but as he did not get up, she called her mother. Mrs. Prochl ran out with a wet towel, and laid it on the back of his neck, believing that the lad had only fainted, and that she could revive him. But the boy only gasped once or twice and lay limp and lifeless in her arms. The place where the stone struck was indicated by a slight swelling, but there was no abrasion, no blood. The missile had found the only spot on the human body where such a slight blow could produce such a terrible result.

When Hugh fell the three boys across the street ran away, and no one has yet identified them.

The statement of little Eddie Kennedy, who lives at 1302 South Ninth street, differs from that of Miss Prochl. This lad was also leaning out of the second-story front window, and he told his mother that Hugh Ryan was not with the other these boys when he first saw them. They came around the corner of Ninth and Ruiger, where the other boys had been when Eddie farst saw them. Eddie was positive in asserting th

TROUBLE OVER -COAL RATES.

Association Trying to Patch Up the Dispute Now On.

The executive officers of the St. Louis coal carrying lines were in session at the office of the Coal Traffic Association nearly all day trying to patch up differences which have almost resulted in the disruption of that association. An agreement was entered into about five years ago by which rates on coal to East St. Louis were fixed at 174 cents per ton from distant mines and 400 from those within a readius of 50 miles.

The Louisville and Nashville asserting that these rates have been cut to 50c and 400 and even lower, withdraw from the association. A meeting of General Managers was held to bring the road back into line but with no success. Another meeting was held, beginning Friday and continuing nearly all day Saturday at which representatives of twelve roads were present. An agreement was submitted Friday, but was not accepted as it did not fix the rate and provided no means of enforcing the agreement. The meeting all through was of a decidedly acrimonious character, there being many charges and counter charges of rate cutting.

Up to 1 p. m. no agreement had been reached.

Stadier and Mayer occupied the same east and, reversing the seat in front, the officer sat facing them. The two prisoners were shackled to each other. Meyer was suddenly seized with a fit. Since his arrest here he has daily been affected with convulsions, which he claimed were due to heart trouble. Stadier was pulled to the floor of the car by Meyer.

Stadier cried to the deputy to get some water, and while he was at the rear end of the car the two men almost succeeded in escaping from the other end. Meyer was just preparing to throw himself out when the speedy officer was upon them, and at the point of a revolver ordered them back into the car. The matter was reported at Chicago and a double watch placed upon the men.

The authorities say that Meyer is one of the shrewdest criminals ever handled in this section of the country. He was arrested in Chicago three weeks ago after having attempted to pass a counterfeit dollar on a Chicago merchant. On the way to the station, unseen by the officer, he "dispocketed" all the queer he had on his person, and later successfully worked the "fit" racket and was allowed to leave the station, pledging himself to return. A lad who witnessed the arrest found the money Meyer had dropped and a warrant for his rearrest was lasued by the United States authorities.

He was located in St. Louis, given a hearing and held. Meyer has threatened to commit suicide a dozen times while locked uphere, and says he will do it at the first opportunity. He is a confirmed morphine fiend and his blotched arms show how frequently he has used the deadly needle.

JOHN HOWE JENKS.

Medallion of the Deceased Preceptor Placed in Smith Academy.

A life-size medallion portrait in bronze of the late John Howe Jenks, M. D., has been placed in the corridor at the left of the public entrance to Smith Academy, at the public entrance to Smith Academy, at Washington avenue and Nineteenth street. Professor Jenks was for almost twenty-six years a member of the faculty of Smith Academy, and died April 9, 1894, from poison absorbed through a slight cut on one of his hands while preparing material for demonstration before his class.

On account of his long and honorable connection with the academy and his high standing and wide reputation as a teacher, Dr. Joseph W. Fairbanks, Principal of Smith Academy, set on foot among the graduates and other friends of the deceased the movement that resulted in a commission to Sculptor Robert Bringhurst to execute the bust. It is now fixed to the wall at the right of the door of the Principal's office, and in conspicuous view of all who pass through the public corridor. It bears no inscription, other than the name of him in whose honor it is erected and the year of his birth (1811) and of his death (1894). The cost of the medallion was a little more than $300.

cost of the medallion was a little more than $200.

Dr. Jenks was believed to have had a premonition of his death, for he discussed at length with Prof. C. M. Woodward the merits of cremation, and expressed the wish that his body should be burned, and the ashes scattered over the fields. When the end came, Mrs. Jenks objected very strongly to such disposition of the body of her husband, and it was given interment in St. John's Cemetery.

Beaten Allowances the Greates of All Premiums on Fraud.

Beaten allowances, especially those for horses that have not been placed in a race, horses that have not been placed in a race, are admitted to be the greatest inducement to unscrupulous horseowners to indulge in their sharp practices. It gives them an advantage and object in their not placing their horses and robs the guilible bettors out of many a place and show bet.

necessful Trial of the Selection of the Union Depot Company.

Mr. Scullin pronounces it the most practicable he has seen.

The fender is in use on all the cars of the Consolidated Traction Company of Newark, N. J. The first person saved by it, probably the first lady to be picked up by a fender in the United States, was Mrs. Mary Stenson of 728 Garfield avenue, Jersey City, on the line of the company if question. She got in front of a car going at full speed, but was picked up without injury save for a few trifling bruises. From that time to date there are reports of thirty-nine cases in Newark. In thirty-eight of them, comprising all kinds of accidents, no one was hurt. In the thirty-ninth case injury resulted because by negligence the fender had not been kept greased, and in working order, and did not drop at the right moment. The fenders are in use in Hoboken, Paterson, Jersey City and on the North Hudson Country Railroad, and negotiations are pending with some of the Brooklyn street railway companies.

The testa yesterday consisted of picking up with some of the Brooklyn street railway companies,

The tests yesterday consisted of picking up sacks of bran and salt, standing perpendicularly, or lying crosswise or lengthwise between the tracks. The tests were very satisfactory, as far as such tests can be. If placed on the edge of the rail the sacks were thrown aside by the fender, and picked up if in the middle. In no case did they so under the wheels or beneath the fender was not lowered. The fender has been in use on a Union Depot car for two months. In that time no person has been struck, but two dogs have been picked up uninjured.

The Union Depot line is about to have forty new cars built, and desires the prompt verdict of the Board of Public Improvements, so that if the fender is approved it can be used on these cars. The Board will probably pass on the question on Tuesday. One of the committee said there was no desire to delay the good work, and a favorable verdict is anticipated.

WAR ON CHEAP PAINT.

Union Painters Offer to Inspect Contracts Free of Charge.

The union painters in St. Louis have be gun a crusade against certain architects and non-union painters. They alleged that an army of cheap painters has arrived here an army of cheap painters. They alleged that an army of cheap painters has arrived here from Chicago and that they are bidding so low on jobs that it is impossible for first-class painters to do business.

It is further asserted that to carry on their work the non-union painters use poor material, and resort to other tricks upon the unsuspecting. The matter is of vast importance to the boss painters and they have determined to act.

A meeting was held Friday night and a resolution ordered printed and circulated among the builders of St. Louis offering "to all parties who are painting houses or contemplating doing so, free of charge, an experienced and reliable journeyman house painter, as inspector of painting, whose duty it shall be to compel all contracting painters of such houses as are given for inspection, to comply strictly with contracts and specifications."

By doing this the union painters hope to remedy the svil, claiming that certain bidders could not use first class material and workmanship without losing money.

THE WATER CARNIVAL. Barnum Show to Give the New York Programme Entire. Until recently the problem of presenting the Barnum & Bailey water carnival as fully as in New York, in St. Louis, and other cities in the route of the show seemed almost impossible because of the long night runs and the necessity for having the tank in order before the show opened. After some planning Manager Balley had a dupli-cate canvas tank made and he now keeps one ahead of the show all the time. Two advance agents arrived last night with the tank to put it in place. Two advance agents arrived last night with the tank to put it in place.

The water carmival is a circus performance and a pantomime combined. A circular tank or pool, a trifle larger than the circus rings, is prepared in advance. It is lined with water-proof canvas, and when filled with water is 3% feet deep in the center. Up above the water ring 51 feet is a tiny platform rigged to the end of a projecting spar. From this little stage, which is only 12x18 inches, the famous dive is made by Louis Golden. His platform is 21 feet away from the line of the center of the pool and this distance is cleared by the leap he makes in springing from his pedestai. It is a moment of suspense to the audience just before Golden dives. He poises himself carefully. Slowly his body sways forward, then leaps high into the air, rising easily five or six feet in a beautiful arch before it begins to descend. He darts like a fash to the water. His clasped hands strike it, a great volume of spray arises, and almost before it has subsided, the darms diver is seen swimming for the edge of the pool.

Another very slever act is performed by William Andree, a French swimmer of international reputation. His "Monte Cristo bag trick," is a novelty in this country. He is tied in a bag, and by means of a block and tackle is elevated to a considerable height above the water. A trap snap drops him into the pool and he disappears into the water. Within 40 seconds he comes up, having released himself from the bag and made a complete change of costume while under water.

CURRENCY REFORM LEAGUE.

Meeting at the Lindell to Organize for 16 to 1.

To-night at the Lindell Hotel, Room 22, at 8 o'clock, a meeting will be held for the purpose of forming a Currency Reform League.

J. B. Follett, Vice-President of the National Bimetallio League, issued the call, and every citizen of St. Louis and vicinity who favors the free and unlimited colnage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 is invited to be present and join the league.

Currency Reform Leagues are being formed in all the surrounding States and Mr. Follett's idea is that St. Louis, the geographical center, should be in a position to invite the conventions which will be held to hold their sessions here.

Mr. Follett has received a letter from Enoch Pepper, Chairman of the Bimetallic party of California, stating that a convention of national committeemen had been called to meet in St. Louis to take proper steps for the calling of a national convention of national committeemen had been called to meet in St. Louis to take proper steps for the calling of a national convention of readdates, etc. In view of this Mr. Foliett hopes for a good turn out to-night.

A $35,000 Church Deal. paid $35,000 for a new church site. The deal was practically closed Friday. The Trustees have bought the southeast corner of Page and Grand avenues, fronting II2 feet on Page and 150 feet on Grand. They intend to improve with a costly edifice. The property was owned by the Third Confregational Church, which at one time occupied the ancient church chapel and parsonage standing upon it. The German Evangelical Protestant congregation at present worships at two places, corner of Seventh street and Clark avenue and corner Eighth and Wainut streets. It has been decided to build a new church and abandon the downtown places of worship.

Early in the afternoon she sent a messenger to her father, John Kalal, a saloon-keeper at Linn and Emmet streets, to tell him that her husband was cruel and she wanted to leave him. Mr. Kalal went to his daughter's home and told her husband that she could not live with him any longer. Cerny said she could go, but she could not take their 7-weeks-old son. Kalal said he would see about that and he went to the police station.

Mrs. Cerny says while he was away her husband locked himself in the front room and loaded his revolver. Then she seized her child and ran down stairs to the street and started for her father's house. When she reached the pavement, she says, her husband looked out of the window, but did not appear disposed to use the weapon that he had loaded.

Mrs. Cerny says her husband has beaten her repeatedly since their marriage last January. Cerny denies this and says he merely asked her to help him in his business as a tailor. He makes coats at home and he wanted her to fix lapels. She refused and, getting angry, sent for her father. He says he did not load a revolver or threaten to shoot his wife, but let her go with the child when her father went to the police station.

ADVANCE IN WAGES

Consolidated Steel and Wire Co. Sur-prises Its Employes. An increase of from 5 to 15 per cent has seen made in the wages of the 600 employes of the Consolidated Steel and Wire Co. The general upward trend of the markets and increased business led to the advance. No demand was made by the men, the announcement coming as a surprise to them. Notice was posted in the works at 5 o'clock Friday evening. The increase dates from June I. When the general business depression began over a year ago the company was obliged to reduce wages from time to time to meet the exigencies of a declining market and Eastern competition.

Business has been good for some time past and the company decided to do the graceful thing by giving the men the benefit of the increased profits. Every man employed in the mill will be benefited by the increase, according to the skill required in his work. The advance will be on a percentage basis figured on the reduction made when the hard times began.

The Consolidated Steel and Wire Co. has big plants at several places in the United States. The employes in the Allentown and Rankin, Pa., mills will also be paid higher wages after June 1.

The advance to be made in the mill at Twenty-first and Papin streets will aggregate about $2,000 a month in the pay-roll, which now amounts to from $18,000 to $20,000. The general upward trend of the market

The Committee of Arrangements has held several meetings at the Lindell and will hold more before the convention. Measures have been taken to raise an entertainment fund that shall be equal to the requirements of all the visitors, and creditable to St. Louis' widely disseminated reputation for hospitality. One of the features of the entertainment programme will be the attendance of the delegates upon the presentation of "Fra Diavolo" at Unrig's Cave. Carriage rides and boat excursions are also being planned.

PLUTOCRACY'S ETHICS.

In one of the numerous answers "Coin." Mr. Horace White of the New York Evening Post attempts to throw iscredit upon the proof afforded that it is gold that has appreciated, instead of silver that has depreciated. What does it matter, he says, if the prices of commodifies, measured by gold, have fallen Debts are not contracted in commodities nor are they paid in commodities. They were contracted in "dollars," he says, and they are to be paid in "dollars," no matter if the dollars have greatly changed in value. Otherwise the debtor

Here, in brief form, are the logic and the ethics of Plutocracy. The great bankers and money-lenders loaned money, to be repaid in "dollars." This is nominated in the bond. They then go to work to make those "dollars" scarce and harder to get, and consequently more valuable. In Mr. White's view there is no ground for criticism in this It is perfectly right to make dollars dollars cheaper is "infamously dis-

Dear dollars make a few rich at the expense of the many. Cheaper dollars benefft the many, and, if they hurt any, hurt only the few. But if the few pursue the world-wide crusade to make dollars dearer, it is "business." If the many demand that money shall be made more abundant and dollars cheaper, then it is "cheating." It is perfectly true, as Mr. White says, that the standard of value should not be tampered with. But who has done the tampering? Who changed the standard of value in 1873? Who is insisting that that change of standard, surreptitiously obtained, shall be accepted permanently by the people?

The efforts of bimetallists at the pres ent time is simply to restore the an standard of value which existed in this country for nearly a hundred years and which was changed by sneak legislation in 1873.

ST. LOUIS AND TEXAS.

Commenting on Gov. Hogg's recent interviews in the New York papers, in which he told the Eastern people of the wonderful resources and development of Texas, a writer in the New York World ns to have just awakened to the significance of Southwestern growth. He says if the tide of immigration to the thwest continues "the growth of Chicago will be checked and some central of the Southwest or Middle West will be built up at its expense." What this writer views as a possibility is now taking place. The direction of st development has changed from Northwest to the Southwest, the the chief city of the Middle West and Southwest, is being built up at Chi-cage's expense. The great increase of St. Louis trade which the Post-Dispatch recently made known and the desperate efforts of Chicago to resist manifest des-tiny show how pronounced the change

There is no better example of South western progress than the State of Texas affords, and no more important factor in affords, and no more important factor in the growth and prosperity of St. Louis than the marvelous development of that magnificent empire. But while St. Louis and Texas will always have close trade connections and will be mutually inter-dependent, Texas has trading possibil-ties within herself which hold out bril-liant prospects for her future develop-ment. As the Houston Post points out, As the Houston Post points out, Hoe & Co. of New York, the great pres manufacturers, will soon ship to the Post-Dispatch one of their splendid quadruple presses. This one press is equal to four single presses or two double presses. Even with this new pres placed in position, the Post-Dispate press facilities will be barely equal to its great and growing dirculation.

THE ILLINOIS LEGISLATIVE MOR.

In the matter of Legislatures the only difference between Missouri and Illinois is that Missouri is rid of her disgrace, while Illinois is still suffering the in-fliction of a daily exhibition of legisla-tive incompetence and dishonesty.

The disgust of the people of Illinois was deepened by the day of fruitless and riotous wrangling which the House indulged in yesterday. All semblance of a deliberative body organized to make laws was destroyed. Parliamentary law was thrown to the winds and the members gave themselves up to a passional struggle over political and private in-terests. The Speaker acted more like the leader of a mob than the presiding officer of a Legislative Assembly. An occasional outbreak of this kind might be forgiven if on its sane days the Legislature worked for the good of the people. But the measures it has passed show that it is as completely, if not as spectacularly, in control of the lobby and the machine bosses as was the Missouri Legislature.

The Illinois Assembly seems to be capable of doing only one good piece of work for the State now and that is to

THE TELEPHONE MONOPOLY FIGHT.

There is promise of a new and powerful ally of the people in their fight against the Bell Telephone monopoly in the or-ganization of the independent telephone apparatus manufacturers which has just been formed in Chicago.

It is fortunate that by nature the greed of monopoly is unlimited and constantly drives it into excess. The Bell Telephon Co. has not only squeezed the people by exorbitant charges for indifferent service, but it has attempted to squeeze every in-terest with which it does business and to crush out all competition. It has used all its vast power and influence to become bsolute master of the telephone business. It has by unstinted use of money sought to control every improvement and very opportunity. It has used all of its resources in courts and legislatures to prevent competition and make all telephone interests subject to its will.

The result is a general revolt and a endency towards the consolidation of opposing interests of which this combination of independent manufacturers is a strong manifestation. It is in placing one strong interest against another that the best hope of relief from monopoly is found and the public should give all the aid in its power to all interests uniting to break the telephone mo nopoly and reduce telephone rates.

Mr. Tom Connor should manage to get in line with his associates on the State Committee. Most of them have been saying that the politicians are opposed to a State Convention, and that if it is wanted at all it is wanted by "the masses." Mr. Connor asserts, on the contrary, that it is only the politicians who want the convention, while the peo-ple, as a rule, take no interest in it. Truly the ways of the dodger are devious.

From the Mexico Intelligencer.

Those Democrats who are opposed to silver coinage may consistently oppose a State Convention this year as the result of an assemblage of the people would unquestionably be to strengthen the silver sentiment in this as well as in other States. But the Democrat who professes to be in favor of free coinage and yet opposes a convention is very much like the fellow who was in favor of the law, but opposed to its enforcement.

Cream Soda.

Boil together a few minutes three pints of water and two pounds of white sugar, juice of two lemons and two ounces of tartaric acid. Set it away to cool. Beat the whites of three eggs to a stiff froth; slowly sift in half a cup of flour and stir until smooth; then flavor with half an ounce of wintergreen essence. When syrup is nearly cool stir in the eggs. When cold put it in a stone jug which has been scalded until perfectly sweet. Cork tightly, keep in cold place. For a drink use two tablespoonfuls of this syrup in one glass of water, and just before drinking add a quarter teaspoonful soda and stir well.

The Lobby in State Politics. To the Editor of the Post-Dis

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In an editorial headed "Temporizing," published in your midnight edition of May 30, considerable attention is paid to Col. John H. Carroll. In view of the stated fact that this Missouri Colonel is a member of the State committee it would be interesting to have your opinion from the "lobby point of view." A more notorious lobbyist aside of Phelps has never been at Jefferson. The people of the State are heartily in accord with the Post-Dispatch in its fight against control of its legislative branches by a corrupting lobby. Its effort in this direction could find no better mark than a stroke at the very root of this evil—elimination of lobyists from control of the Democratic party. Good Advice to the State Committee. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Mr. Editor, let me give a little humble advice to the State Central Committee and leaders of your party in this State. Let them pay a little more attention to the welfare and opinions of the people at large, as well as those of bank presidents, bondholders, corporations and gold bugs, and the party will be a "big winner" in '96. I know whereof I speak, especially in this State, for I am constantly traveling throughout it, and I find that the people of both the old parties are outspoken advocates of free and unlimited coinage of silver. I have conversed with many life-long Democratis, who, like Mr. Lackland, are ready to vote the Republican ticket if their party ignores their wishes as regards silver. And as most Western Republicans have lost faith in their party doing anything for silver, "but straddle," you will find lots of them, like myself, ready to vote with the party that comes out squarely for free Coinage.

A Grepe Paper Veil Case.

A pretty veil case can be made of the crepe tissue paper which has sprung into such popularity during the past few years. First—a foundation is prepared like an ordinary book cover of cardboard, the back having a flexible hinge, so it will open and abut easily, made of stiff paper or cloth and covered with slik. The whole case is lined with the same pale bued silk with an interlining of cotton wadding sprinkled with sachet powder and then the outside is covered with strips of the crepe paper three-quarters of an inch wide interlaced through small brass curtain rings. If one does not mind the trouble these rings may be buttonholed with knitting silk to match the lining of the case, the paper being of some prettily contrasting shade.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

He Claims To Be in Perfect Harmony With Elevator Directors.

TWO FACTIONS IN THE BOARD

Directors Augry at Each Other for Stock Speculation, and Monday's Meeting Will Be Lively.

Interesting surprises are looked for in the tairs of the St. Louis United Elevator Co. onday afternoon, when the Board of Dictors will hold another meeting. The mor that Web M. Samuel, President of company, would resign gained wide cursay yesterday. This was positively denied Mr. Samuel.

the company, would resign gained wide currency yesterday. This was positively denied by Mr. Samuel.

"No, I have not said that I would resign," said Mr. Samuel to a Post-Dispatch man." I have no intention of resigning. There is the utmost harmony between the Board of Directors and myself."

When told that Charles W. Isaacs was mentioned as the man slated for the presidency of the company, Mr. Samuel said: "Well, Mr. Isaacs is a competent man."

The gossip on Change yesterday was that of Mr. Samuel does not offer his resignation the board at its meeting on Monday is liable to retire him and give the place to Mr. Isaacs. Mr. Slack, Secretary of the company, will go, too, it is said, and Mr. Isaacs will select his own secretary. Charles. Cunningham, assistant secretary of the company, is favorably mentioned for the secretaryship.

Cunningham, assistant secretary of the company, is favorably mentioned for the secretaryship.

Mr. Jisaacs is the cashler of the St. Louis National Bank and was for years the President of the 9d Advance Elevator Co. After that elevator was burned and then rebuilt it went into the combination and Mr. Isaacs was retained as manager. But the atmosphere became unpleasant for him and he resigned. However, Mr. Isaacs, so his friends say, made the reputation of being the best elevator man in the West while he was in charge of the old Advance. Therefore, it is fully expected that if he were to be placed at the head of the United Elevator Co. his able management would soon restore confidence and recuperate the company's damaged prestige.

Another little story went the rounds on the floor of the Exchange vesterday in regard to the supposed appointment of Mr. Isaacs to the presidency. It is said that the Board of Directors would have appointed Mr. Isaacs Friday, but that he ran afoul of David R. Francis in the selection of a man for secretary. Ex-Governor Francis is a director in the United Elevator Company, and, it is said, his modesty was not shattered in the least by demanding that his brother-in-law, W. G. Boyd, ex-president of the Marchants' Exchange, should be made the new secretary of the company, But, it also appears that Mr. Isaacs and ex-Governor Francis do not squander any love on each other.

Mr. Isaacs, who was extended the privilege of selecting a secretary for the company, would not agree to accept the presidency if Mr. Boyd was to be the new secretary. Therefore, the Board of Directors adjourned their meeting to Monday in order to have this matter settled.

It was again rumored yesterday that the shortage in the United Elevator Co., while the other faction declares that certain men took advantage of the reported shortage to create a scare and thereby lower the proice of the stock and frighten small stockholders into selling.

On the face of the proposition it seems that an elevator should be run on a perfe

Elevator Co. are perplexing and multifarious.

This company controls eleven elevators on both sides of the river. Six are located north of the big bridge and five south. Each elevator is in charge of a foreman, who is presumed to know the exact amount of wheat that goes in and comes out. A superintendent is in charge of all the elevators north of the bridge, and another superintendent is in charge of those south of the bridge. The foremen report to the superintendents and the superintendents report to President Samuel in the main offices in the Rialto Building. Now, the shortage of 150,000 bushels of wheat means a leakage that the foremen have overlooked. On the face of it this would seem to denote carelessness. But the directors of the company claim that this is only a natural shrinkage, and is not in any sense a criminal shrinkage, no weighing has been done for five years, but not the course is given for the this.

face of it this would seem to denote carelessness. But the directors of the company claim that this is only a natural shrinkage, and is not in any sense a criminal shrinkage,
and is not in any sense a criminal shrinkage,
No weighing has been done for five years, but no strong excuse is given for this. It is claimed that there were two years of bad wheat when it lost by shrinkage. Also, in this climate wheat must be turned oftener than wheat stored in elevators farther north, and every time wheat is turned there is a loss in weight, owing to the wearing away of a portion of the grain. Furthermore, it is claimed that one year produced wheat that contained weevil and the grain had to be turned in order to kill the insect.
But a weevil bores a small hole in the grain and in turning the dust is shaken from this hole and produces a loss in weight. While the weevil hole produces but an infinitesimally small loss of weight in one grain, yet in turning thousands upon thousands of bushels of wheat the loss in weight amounts to a big figure, comparatively. The only wheat that the pestiferous weevil does not destroy is that well-known speculative, product, "wind wheat."

And Heads of Brave Fire Laddies Fall Thick and Fast.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Several months ago Attorney General Moloney began quo-warranto proceedings against Pullman's Palace Car Company, for the purpose of taking away the company's charter and terminating its corporate existence. In his information the Attorney General set up that the car company had violated its charter by buying real estate and building the town of Pullman by erecting and operating the Pullman building in this city, by manufacturing brick and in other ways. The case has been pending in the courts ever since. It was elaborately argued some time ago and Judge Baker handed down his decision to-day. The decision was favorable to the court held that the company had the right to own the Pullman building, the brickyard land and to sell the liquor on ears, but had no right to own Pullman iron and steel stock. No judgment was entered against the company. the company.

California Wine Co. of this city, was touted dead in a room in the Commercial Hotel at Red Bud, Ill., Saturday morning. From what Wippern safd before his death and other circumstances, he is supposed to have committed suicide by taking morphine. The news of Wippern's death was received at the wine company's office, 10 North Fourth street, street, Saturday.

A week ago Tuesday Wippern was given a place as traveling salesman for the California Wine Co. His route lay in Illinois. The firm started him out, giving him enough money for his expenses, and instructed him to write to St. Louis every day. From the time he stepped out of the company's office until Saturday morning nothing was heard from him by his employers. Wippern was a hard drinker and it is thought that he squandered all of his expense money for liquor. Then after having exhausted every source from which he could obtain whisky, he grew despondent and ended his life. Friday morning Wippern called at the Commercial Hotel in Red Bud and asked for a room. He retired about 10 clock, seemingly in good spirits. At two clock Saturday morning several guests in the hotel heard groans coming from Wippern's room. The ly in good spirits. At two o'clock Saturday morning several guests in the hotel heard groans coming from Wippern's room. The night clerk was notified and as he approached the room he heard the unfortunate man groan: "I am dying at last, at last!" The door was forced open and Wippern was found on the bed, suffering intense agony. "I have taken poison," said Wippern to the night clerk. "I am going to die in a few minutes and you might as well leave me alone." A doctor was summoned and heroic efforts to bring Wippern out of danger were resorted to. The poison which he had taken had claimed its victim long before the night clerk had found Wippern, and in two hours he was dead. The doctor who attended Wippern stated that he had taken morphine.

Wippern was married and leaves a family living at 1119 Montgomery street in this city. He was a member of the I. O. O. F.

At the office of the California Wine Co. very little is known of his past life. He had been out of employment for some time before he secured a place as traveling salesman. Several years ago he was one of Red Bud's most prominent business men. He took to drinking and was finally obliged to move to St. Louis on account of his habits. When the California Wine Co. started Wippern out it was with the understanding that he had sworn off drinking.

DEED OF A CRAZY SON.

Shot His Mother and Sister to Death at Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 1.-A strange case of murder and suicide occurred at an early hour this morning. Miss Martha M. Elias and her daughter Annie were found weltering in their own blood in their round weitering in their own blood in their, rooms over a drug store on Nicoliet avenue. The old lady had evidently shot the girl as she slept, and then turned the revolver on herself, blowing the whole top of her head off. They were well to do, and the only apparent reason for the act lies in the supposition that Mrs. Elias mind was affected by the violent death of her husband seven years ago. supposition that Mrs. Elias' mind was affected by the violent death of her husband seven years ago.

More careful examination of the facts surrounding the Elias tragedy by the authorities shows beyond question that both women were murdered and that it is not a case of suicide. It is the belief of the officials that it is not a case of suicide. It is their that the deed was committed by Lorraine Elias; son of the murdered woman. Elias is mentally unbalanced and was for a time confined in the asylum at 8t. Peter's, but was released May 1 as harmless. His grip containing money and clothing marked with his name was found in his room, and the curtain of the back window, torn down by him when he escaped, was found. A bullet hole through the front window showed that one shot went wild. At the Morgue it was discovered that the victim had been hacked and bruised with some instrument like a hatchet, and that these wounds were sufficient in the case of the girl at least to have produced death.

The revolver was clutched tightly in the old lady's hand, as it would have been had she died thus, but appeared to have been thrust into her hand. The police are now looking for the crays son. The daughter was 25 years of age and was engaged to be married. She was the manager of a successful laundry.

Cholera in Japan.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Surgeon General
Wyman of the Marine Hospital service has received a letter from Dr. Stuart Eldridge to the United States Sanitary Inspector at Yokohama, under date of May 10, regarding the prevalence of cholera and the plague. Dr. Eldridge says:

"The condition in Japan as regards cholera remains much as at the date of my last report. Single cases, rarely more, are reported from various localities in the region of the naval and military depots of the south. There is absolutely no question but that in Hong Kong and Macao there have been cases of the plague, though the usual attempts at concealment of the danger have been made."

WHEAT—Extremely nervous and unsettled was the market, but not near so much feverishness ex-hibited as yesterday and the buying better and more confident. The opening was at Ic advance and did not sell below the opening price during balance of the day, whereas, the market eventually sold %c higher and closed at the top, though with scillers.

balance of the day, whereas, the market eventually sold ½e higher and closed at the top, though with sollers.

The weather and crop news were entirely too bad this morning to allow the market to be as bearishly inclined as it was during the greates part of yesterday. Hot and dry was the cry from the entire country east of this market, and that these same conditions prevailed here, was only too plainly evident to the sweltering pit trader. From nearly all directions did complaints come in and most of them indicated it was almost a calamity. To top off with was the Modern Miller's estimate of a further decline of Solio per cent in winter wheat's condition. The news and infinences were builtish enough to encourage and stimulate further purchases, yet a disposition to fight the advance was still seen and the trader who was so conspicuous a seller and pounder of wheat yesterday was again working against the bull side this morning. No foreign cables were in, as it was bank holiday in England, Exports for the week were good and larger than a year ago. Receipts were libral at most markets and estimates for not over 1,000,000 bu decrease in the visible. Argentine shipments were large, too.

The day's clearances were small, from ports in flour and wheat being 243,000 bu. It was, however, only weather and crops that counted as influences to-day and late in the session therewas considerable buying by shorts, who feared an excited and largely higher market Monday if weather conditions did not change or indications of more favorable weather were seen by that time. Hence, the market held at the session and the close was at the top.

The revolution in Ecuador," said Mr. Whisler, "is quite as serious as has been reported. The insurrectionists greatly outnumber the government troops, but are poorly armed. The troops have a good upply of arms and ammunition. When I set Guayaquil that city was still in the lands of the government, although the rebels had surrounded it. The feeling in Juayaquil is in sympathy with the revolutionists. It turns out that the Esmeralda candal was only a pretext for the revolution, and that the real cause was religious lifferences."

HUMILIATION OF JAPAN.

She Loses Manchurian Territory and Gets No Return.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

TOKIO, Japan, May 16, via Victoria, B. C., June 1.—Foreign Minister Mutzu, who, with Premier Ito, represented Japan in the peace convention at Shimonseki, affects to believe that the popular feeling against the min-convention at Shimonseki, affects to believe that the popular feeling against the ministry because of the relinquishing of Manchuria is not as intense as has generally been reported. Nevertheless, he has taken the precaution to have himself carefully guarded in order to escape being a mark for a Soshi builet or dagger.

Several Tokto editors told the correspondent to-day that public sentiment is so outraged over the manner in which the Government handled the peace negotiations and the interference of the powers that Ministers Ito and Mutsu would have to resign or be assassinated.

"The people are incensed," said the editor of one of the largest journals here, "because Ito has been outwitted and has brought shame upon Japan. He should have known in advance that Russia, France and Germany would not permit Japan to acquire the Listong peninsula. If, as he says, Russia gave assurances that she would not interfere, Ito should not have relied upon that implicitly. He should have required of China the formal agreement in the treaty of peace, and if objections were made by other powers to Japan's possession of the Liatong peninsula, China should agree to the payment of an additional idemnity for the return of that territory. Not so, Japan must return the territory, and cannot force China to increase the indemnity without violating the treaty and again declaring war. Should she do that, she would merit the contempt of the civilized world.

"Japan could not have afforded war with Russia, France and Germany combined. The people realize that, but they are humiliated because Japan is sess Manchurian territory and gets nothing in return. The great victories of her war with China are now beclouded. Japan is humiliated because of the bungling of the Ministers, and the people will not be satisfied with anything less than their resignation. Then we must prepare for what is to come. Japan cannot rest content with the present results. The people are in almost a state of rebellion against the Ministers, each of whom is carefully gu

The Illinois House Remains in Riotous Session Without a Quorum. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 1.—Although SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 1.—Although there was no quorum in the House yesterday it remained in six hours of riotous session. Daniel S. Berry of Carroll, who was in the chair in the absence of Speaker Meyer, who is sick, advanced pet measures on the calendar and refused to recognize members who desired to offer amendments to any of the bills or to make the point of order that there was no quorum present.

point or order that there was no querum present.

Merritt, Schubert, Lowenthal, Weston, Schaffer and others began the trouble by keeping the House in a deadlock from 11 to 2 o'clock on the Torrens land title bill, which was called up by Miller of Cook. These members eventually forced a ma-jority of the Representatives present to ac-cede to their demands. Merritt offered the following amendment which, it was said, strikes directly at the heart of the meas-ure:

strikes directly at the heart of the measure:

"No applicant for registration of interest in land under this act shall be required to file an abstract of title with his application, but it shall be the duty of the examiner to examine thoroughly the full records in the Recorder's office of the county in which the land is situated as the basis of their opinion."

This amendment provoked a vigorous debate, May, Jones, of Cook, Ferns, Crafts, and others denouncing it as being in the interest solely of the abstractors of Chicago and declaring that it would take thousands of dollars from the pockets of property owners.

thousands of dollars from the pockets of property owners.

Merritt made similar accusations against the original bill and a substitute for his amendment offered by Jones. The debate became very personal.

Jones' substitute on a vote received 56 yeas and 17 nays. This showed then was no quorum present. The chair, however, refused to submit a roll call to show the fact. After a discussion of the amendments offered, lasting fully three hours, the bill was made a special order for next Tuesday. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in advancing bills and making special orders for next week. On almost every question of advancement there were objections made.

FOR SECRETARY OF STATE.

Olney, Carter, Dickinson and Uhl Are All Mentioned.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Attorney General Olney's name figured in the day's speculation as to who will succeed Gresham, and James C. Carter was mentioned for the head of the department of justice. This gossip is believed to be without foundation, especially in so far as it refers to Olney. The President is an admirer of Mr. Carter, and, considering his great general knowledge of international law, as shown at the Bering Sea hearing in Paris, there is a possibility, perhaps, of Mr. Carter being made Secretary of State. However, Mr. Carter's income from his law practice now is so large that it is not thought likely he would sacrifice it for two years or less in the State Department. The sentiment among the politicians is that Don M. Dick-inson will be the President's choice. Mr. Dickinson saw the President in Chicago, but under the grave circumstances of uneit meeting it is unlikely that the subject of appointment was discussed. If anything has passed between the President and Mr. Dickinson, it was during the latter's visit to Washington some three weeks ago, at the time when it was understood by the inside circle that Mr. Gresham would retire in case of his recovery from what afterwards proved to be a fatal illness.

There is still a possibility of Acting Secretary of State Uni being promoted. The President is about ready to leave for Gray Gables. He may make the appointment next week, and he may not make one for ninety days. It was at first thought that he would have to fill the vacancy within ten days; it was next discovered that by an amended statute he had thirty statutory days, and it is found that an Assistant Secretary indefinitely, or until the appointment of a successor.

BY A PILGRIMAGE.

Presbyterians Will Celebrate the Founding of Their Faith Here.

pecial to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Presbyterian faith gained its first foothold in America at Free hold, N. J., and in commemoration of its founding, Presbyterians of many States will make a pilgrimage of Old Scot's Church at Freehold next Tuesday, and from there march, after the manner of pilgrims of olden times, to Old Tennent Church, half a olden times, to Old Tennent Church, half a dozen miles distant. A special train will convey the crowds from Freehold to Tennent Station, and there a procession will be formed to march along roads to the old edifice. The pilgrims will view the famous battlefield of Monmouth, the monument of brave Moll Pitcher, who served as a cannoner in the Continental Army, and the grave of sturdy Walter Kerr.

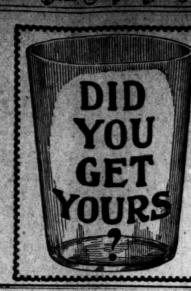

No change has been made in the Tennent Church since the days of the Revolution. The people will sit in high-backed pews and listen to addresses from the old pulpit where many patriotic appeals were made in 1776. On the pews the pilgrims will see dark spots, the bloodstains of wounded Continental and British soldiers, who were carried there from the battle-field.
